International Graphic was a pictorial magazine published by Kokusai Johosha from 1922 to 1968, covering a broad range of topics, such as international relations, politics, industry, social issues, education, architecture, art, medical science, religion, tourism, show business, sports, science, fashion, entertainment, lifestyle, and more. Most of the original print copies have already been lost, but this eBook version brings the social situations of the Taisho and Showa periods back to life through an abundance of photographs presented in the original colors.

Going beyond the original print version, this version includes volume and page numbers on each page, and offers you the ability to conduct full-text searches and to enlarge the images to make new discoveries.

Set 1 consists of the volumes published from 1951 to 1954. It is available for a special price until the end of January 2022!
